DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-4, 9 and 22-31 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art does not teach or suggest: a plastic lens produced by injection molding of resin material having a lens part; a flange part on a periphery of the lens part, the flange part having a flange surface on at least one side of the flange part and a depressed part formed on at least a part of the flange surface; and a marking integrally molded by injection molding to a marking surface of the depressed part, the marking having a convex shape, a highest point of the marking being lower than a highest point of the flange surface (independent claim 1); a plastic lens produced by injection molding of resin material having: a lens part having first and second convex lens surfaces, the second convex lens surface opposing the first convex lens surface; and a flange part formed on a periphery of the lens part, the flange part having: a first portion having a surface higher than the first convex lens surface; a second portion having a surface lower than the surface of the first portion; a marking formed on the surface of the second portion and arranged apart from the first convex lens surface, a highest point of the marking being lower than a highest point of the surface of the first portion; and a slope inclined toward the first convex lens surface and provided between the surface of the second portion and the first convex lens surface (independent claim 22), a plastic lens produced by injection molding of resin material, the plastic lens having: a lens part; a flange part formed on a periphery of the lens part and including a flange surface; a first marking formed on the flange surface; and a second marking formed on the flange surface, wherein a relative position of the first marking and the second marking is determined according to a type of production jig used to produce the plastic lens (independent claim 27); or a plastic lens produced by injection molding of resin material having: a lens part having first and second lens surface, the second lens surface opposing the first lens surface; and a flange part formed on a periphery of the lens part. the flange part comprising: a first portion having a surface higher than the first lens surface, a second portion having a surface lower than the surface of the first portion; a marking having a convex shape, the marking formed on the surface of the second portion and arranged apart from the first lens surface, a highest point of the marking being lower than a highest point of the surface of the first portion; and a slope inclined toward the first lens surface and provided between the surface of the second portion and the first lens surface (independent claim 31).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
